Project Description:

For this project, the objective is to build a website to function as my "home page" and personal profile. The website should feature basic biographical information and quick facts about myself, details about my previous career as a musician, and a summary of my progress so far on my computer science educational journey. These are each separated into different pages on the site, namely "Home", "Music", and "Tech". There is a fourth page as well, "Contact", which contains links for contacting me through email and connecting with me on several social media websites.

User Personas:

Armen Sarkisian, the website owner

Jane Smith, a recruiter

Michael Jones, a person interested in taking piano lessons
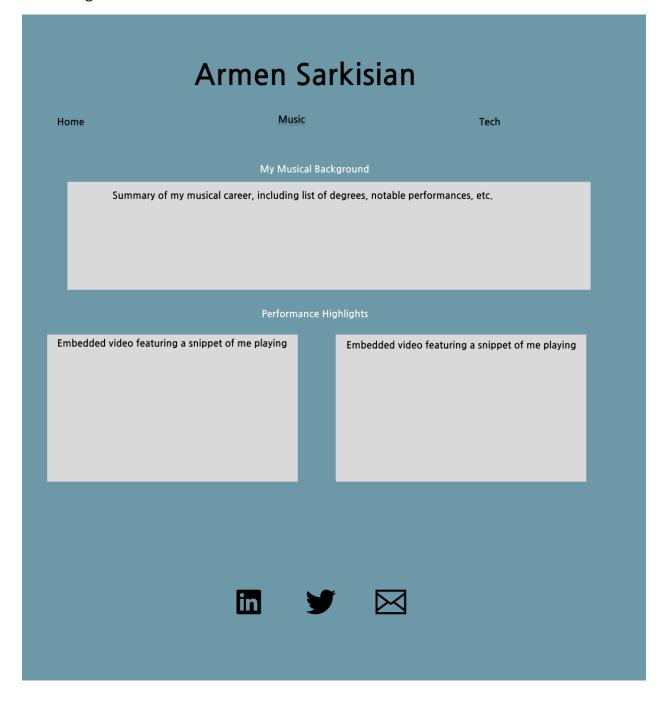

User Stories:

- Armen wants to share personal information about himself with his peers, so that they can learn more about his story
- Armen wants people who are interested in piano lessons to learn more about him and his musical credentials, so that he can recruit more students
- Armen wants a basic profile that he can share with the connections in his network, so that they can learn more about him on a personal level
- Jane, who has met Armen through networking, wants to view Armen's progress in his computer science education and see what skills he has to offer so that she can recruit him if his skills match her company's needs. She would also like to find out more by having easy access to his LinkedIn and other social media profiles.
- Michael, who has seen an advertisement for piano lessons with Armen, wants to find out more about Armen's musical credentials and personal story, so that he can decide if Armen would be a good fit as his teacher.

About Me

Hi, I'm Armen. My two passions are music and CS. Currently, I'm pursuing a Master's degree in Computer Science at Northeastern. Before that, I was a classical pianist living and freelancing in NYC. Etc.
Click here to read more about my life as a musician, and here to learn more about my journey into tech.
